The Alre Valley Trail (not placed down)

Within this three-mile radius of St John's, the parish church, there are over 60 miles of paths and trails. Many of these are hundreds of years old. The Alre Valley Trail gives you an opportunity to see at close hand some of the lovely countryside that surrounds Alresford. Also, for the more adventurous, the trail leads to more opportunities for longer walks if you so wish.

The Eel House

Buses on the 11, 18 and 31 very nearly every hour, as well as trains to Winchester on the Mid-Hants Line. If you continue on past The Eel House you will see a small pond known as The Arlebury Pond. This pond is home to a number of species of wildlife, including ducks, geese, and herons.

The Alre Valley Trail, this circular walk loop off the Millennium Trail and rejoins it. End of Millennium Trail.

Traveling to Alresford

You have now reached Drove Lane. Please take extra care on this road, where you turn left, back towards the town.

You will also have a panoramic view of the roof tops of Alresford and the tower of St John's Church. Many of the solids of the Alre Valley Trail are of recent construction, but many of the ponds of the Alre Valley Trail are of earlier times.

About 200 metres down Drove Lane you re-cross the river and on Sundays and some Bank Holidays. Perins Car Park is free of charge. Buses run at least hourly from Alton & Winchester. For details see www.alresford.org.

Useful Information

Guildhall, High Street, Alresford

Tel 01962 732 079 Fax 01962 733 094
e-mail tourism@winchester.gov.uk

© New Alresford Town Council, Tel 01962 732 079 Fax 01962 733 094

Facilities & accessibility

Parking with time limit. The Millennium Trail is suitable for

The Alre Valley Trail gives you an

You have now reached Drove Lane. Please take extra care on this road, where you turn left, back towards the town.

You will also have a panoramic view of the roof tops of Alresford and the tower of St John's Church. Many of the solids of the Alre Valley Trail are of recent construction, but many of the ponds of the Alre Valley Trail are of earlier times. The Eel House

Buses on the 11, 18 and 31 very nearly every hour, as well as trains to Winchester on the Mid-Hants Line. If you continue on past The Eel House you will see a small pond known as The Arlebury Pond. This pond is home to a number of species of wildlife, including ducks, geese, and herons.

The Alre Valley Trail, this circular walk loop off the Millennium Trail and rejoins it. End of Millennium Trail.

Traveling to Alresford

You have now reached Drove Lane. Please take extra care on this road, where you turn left, back towards the town.

You will also have a panoramic view of the roof tops of Alresford and the tower of St John's Church. Many of the solids of the Alre Valley Trail are of recent construction, but many of the ponds of the Alre Valley Trail are of earlier times. The Eel House

Buses on the 11, 18 and 31 very nearly every hour, as well as trains to Winchester on the Mid-Hants Line. If you continue on past The Eel House you will see a small pond known as The Arlebury Pond. This pond is home to a number of species of wildlife, including ducks, geese, and herons.

The Alre Valley Trail gives you an opportunity to see at close hand some of the lovely countryside that surrounds Alresford. Also, for the more adventurous, the trail leads to more opportunities for longer walks if you so wish.

The Eel House

Buses on the 11, 18 and 31 very nearly every hour, as well as trains to Winchester on the Mid-Hants Line. If you continue on past The Eel House you will see a small pond known as The Arlebury Pond. This pond is home to a number of species of wildlife, including ducks, geese, and herons.

The Alre Valley Trail gives you an opportunity to see at close hand some of the lovely countryside that surrounds Alresford. Also, for the more adventurous, the trail leads to more opportunities for longer walks if you so wish.

The Eel House

Buses on the 11, 18 and 31 very nearly every hour, as well as trains to Winchester on the Mid-Hants Line. If you continue on past The Eel House you will see a small pond known as The Arlebury Pond. This pond is home to a number of species of wildlife, including ducks, geese, and herons.

The Alre Valley Trail gives you an opportunity to see at close hand some of the lovely countryside that surrounds Alresford. Also, for the more adventurous, the trail leads to more opportunities for longer walks if you so wish.
Leave Station Yard and walk down Station Road to the visitor information point and railway shop. Watercress Line are now a major tourist attraction. The restored line is open to the public on the third Sunday in May. The steam trains running on the line run from Alresford to Medstead and Four Marks via Ropley.

The Millennium Trail begins in the Station Yard where parking is available. The railway came to Alresford in 1865 and greatly assisted the developing watercress industry as it allowed access to local industry and is celebrated at the annual Watercress Festival every July. At the nearby Station Road, turning to the Mill Race, the Millennium Line are a minor tourist attraction. The restored station is open to the public and offers views of the river as well as a variety of local produce. A visitor information point and railway shop.

The Millennium Trail

Churchyard

This is a site of particular ecological importance, containing a range of habitats, and has been designated a Site of Metropolitan Importance. The churchyard contains a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

East Street

As you walk down East Street, you will pass a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

Mill Hill

The Mill House is a Grade II listed building which is on the left side of East Street. It was built in 1694 and is now a private residence. The

Watercress

As you continue along East Street, you will pass a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

Albury Park

You can now enjoy three miles of beautiful River Alre walks in and out of the village of Alresford. The park has a variety of wildlife, including

Arlebury Park

You can add an optional diversion within the Millennium Trail by branching off onto the Alre Valley Trail, shown overleaf.

Valley Trails

Alre Valley Trail

Did you know?

All the nouns in italics are place names. The names are in their original form, with only minor spelling corrections to make the text coherent. Some minor

Alresford

As you walk down Station Road, turning to the Mill Race, the Millennium Line are a minor tourist attraction. The restored station is open to the public and offers views of the river as well as a variety of local produce. A visitor information point and railway shop.

The Millennium Trail

Churchyard

This is a site of particular ecological importance, containing a range of habitats, and has been designated a Site of Metropolitan Importance. The churchyard contains a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

East Street

As you walk down East Street, you will pass a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

Mill Hill

The Mill House is a Grade II listed building which is on the left side of East Street. It was built in 1694 and is now a private residence. The

Watercress

As you continue along East Street, you will pass a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

Albury Park

You can now enjoy three miles of beautiful River Alre walks in and out of the village of Alresford. The park has a variety of wildlife, including

Arlebury Park

You can add an optional diversion within the Millennium Trail by branching off onto the Alre Valley Trail, shown overleaf.

Valley Trails

Alre Valley Trail

Did you know?

All the nouns in italics are place names. The names are in their original form, with only minor spelling corrections to make the text coherent. Some minor

Alresford

As you walk down Station Road, turning to the Mill Race, the Millennium Line are a minor tourist attraction. The restored station is open to the public and offers views of the river as well as a variety of local produce. A visitor information point and railway shop.

The Millennium Trail

Churchyard

This is a site of particular ecological importance, containing a range of habitats, and has been designated a Site of Metropolitan Importance. The churchyard contains a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

East Street

As you walk down East Street, you will pass a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

Mill Hill

The Mill House is a Grade II listed building which is on the left side of East Street. It was built in 1694 and is now a private residence. The

Watercress

As you continue along East Street, you will pass a number of interesting and significant structures, including the

Arlebury Park

You can now enjoy three miles of beautiful River Alre walks in and out of the village of Alresford. The park has a variety of wildlife, including

Albury Park

You can add an optional diversion within the Millennium Trail by branching off onto the Alre Valley Trail, shown overleaf.

Valley Trails

Alre Valley Trail

Did you know?

All the nouns in italics are place names. The names are in their original form, with only minor spelling corrections to make the text coherent. Some minor

Alresford